A photograph of a stone tower, known as Torre Colombaia, situated in a wooded area. The tower is built from light-colored stone and has several arched windows. A prominent feature is a wooden staircase that winds around the tower, providing access to an upper level. The tower is surrounded by lush green trees, and the scene is captured in bright daylight. In the foreground, there is a small outdoor seating area with a table and chairs. The overall atmosphere is peaceful and natural.

Le bois séculaire entoure les cultures comme protection contre le vent, l'un des très rares exemples existant de gestion du bois bénédictin.

Torre Colombaia was also one of the first agritourism in Umbria, with accommodation , located in 19th century houses, previously hunt cottages
